VOL. 46—No. 1 Thursday, May 12, 1948.

W. I. HEAR TALK ON CURRENT EVENTS

The regular monthly meeting of the W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Reid Litchfield, with Mrs. W. Seaman as assistant hostess. With president Mrs. N.W. Peterson presiding, the meeting opened with members singing "Silver Threads Among The Gold", followed by Flag Salute with Mrs. A. Winkler and Creed with Mrs. I. McBride. Roll call was answered by 17 members each giving a tribute to Mother.

Business arising out of the correspondence was dealt with. In the M.P. member plan each member donated the sum of 2c to be sent to the Provincial Treasurer.

Donation to the Federated W.I. was held over until fall when the local W.I. will have a bazaar to raise funds.

Mrs. McBride, constituency convener stated that the district conference will be held at Warner on June 4th and Mrs. A.W. Winkler was appointed to reply to the address of welcome at the conference. The W.I. will also provide a special number for the program under the direction of Mrs. W. McMullin.

Mrs. June Alfred read a letter from Mrs. Hutchinson, asking for a photograph of the institute members as a group. This will be taken at the June Conference. Also Mrs. Alfred will co-operate with Mrs. L. D. King in compiling a Tweedsmuir history.

The program was in the form of a talk given by Mr. Lyman Jacobs. He chose as his subject the Situation in Palestine. He stated that Palestine being the birthplace of Christianity was vitally interesting and important historically. It is the trade route of the old world, and situated only a few hundred miles from the Dardanelles and Suez Canal. It is most important to U.S. as the Arabian Kingdoms contain one of the largest oil fields in the world. These must be protected or Russia might step in. Mr. Jacobs also touched on the Marshall plan and stated the benefits Canada would derive from the plan.

Our study of the provinces of Canada was then continued and Ontario was chosen and Mrs. I. McBride gave a most interesting sketch of the province and statistics to show it was very important as the manufacturing centre of the East.

Nine pairs of felt slippers and 2 "hussies" were handed in as the work project.

All members will bring in a donation of food for an overseas parcel to be forwarded in June.

The door prize, a layer cake, was won by Mrs. D. Paxman.

After adjournment a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Track and Field Meet for June 12

Raymond's annual Track and Field meet is scheduled to be held this year on June 12 at the Park. This year there are 66 events in the meet with events for Boys and Girls under 14, Boys and Girls under 16, Boys under 19, Ladies Open and Senior Mens Open events.

Trophies will be awarded for every event and aggregate trophies for each class except some senior events.

The meet is under the Track and Field Division of the Raymond Athletic Association with Dr. Walker Jerome Platt and Derald Miller helping the boys with their training.

Practises are being held every night at the track with the above three men on hand from 5 to 6:30. Entry forms are now available and requests are coming in from over the Province for entry forms and the prospects are good for a bigger and better Track and Field Meet this year.

There are over 60 beautiful trophies to be awarded contestants this year and they will be presented at the dance held in the Opera House after the meet in the evening.

Make your plans now to attend Raymond's Annual Track and Field Meet on Saturday June 12

AMY ALLEN PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

WILL EXTEND PROGRAM TO CENTRE-LINE ROADS

Centre lining of main highways in Alberta will be continued this year, according to officials of the public works department.

The scheme was carried on extensively last year and was found to give great satisfaction while also providing greater safety, a step highly commended by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Use of a centre line also has had the effect of reducing the number of night time accidents, it is claimed. The luminous line stands out prominently and is easily observed enabling traffic to keep to its right side and reduce the hazards of night driving.

Meantime, recent flood conditions in Alberta are feared to have done extensive damage to the highways and cause heavy outlays to bring some roads back to their former standard.

In some areas crews have been delayed in getting started on this year's projects, owing to the late spring, though considerable gravel was assembled during the winter for early surfacing operations.

Dr. and Mrs. O. T. Bingham were in Edmonton this week to attend the graduation exercises of the U. of A.

Harlan Taylor and Steele Brewerton received their degrees in Medicine at convocation in Edmonton this week. Steele will practice here where he will be associated with Drs. Walker and McPherson. Harlan will go to Texas where he will intern.

Mrs. Frank Rabusic and daughter Marie have been visiting in New York city with Mrs. Rabusic's son and are expected home this week.

The Misses Donna and Mona Palmer entertained a number of friends Saturday evening at their home. A jolly evening of games was enjoyed and after lunch the group attended the dance. Out of town guests included Roy Spackman and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Humphries.

Mrs. Thelma Coombs and children of Rosaryville have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Larson.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Taylor of Salt Lake City are visiting here. Mrs. Taylor is a sister of President J. H. Walker and Mrs. Margaret Salmon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Roberts are expected home at the week end.

The death occurred Thursday evening May 20, of Amy Allen, beloved wife of John L. Allen of Raymond. Amy Allen was born in Provo, Utah, in 1907 and came to Canada in 1930 from Salt Lake City.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband John, daughter Amy, son Richard, and an infant son. She was forty one years of age.

Also there are relatives in the States.

Amy Allen was very well known throughout the Taylor Stake, she having worked in the Stake Sunday School, Stake Primary organizations for many years, and recently as President of the Young Ladies M. I. A. organization. Her duties in the Stake carried her to many towns and her sweet disposition and character endeared her to all, her passing coming as a distinct shock in the south.

Funeral services will be held in the Stake House, Monday, May 24 at 2 p.m.

What Is The Raymond Dance Committee

The question is being asked, What is the Raymond Dance Committee? The answer is quite simple. It is a committee composed of a member of each of the four ward M.I.A. organizations with a manager and an assistant manager. This committee has been asked to see that a dance is put on every Saturday night. In the past this has not been done and as a result, our young people have gone elsewhere for their entertainment.

We would very much appreciate the co-operation of the parents in this matter so that we can put on each week a dance of high standard that will interest our dancers and keep the crowds coming to Raymond.

NEWS NOTES

Community Spirit

Like all other towns south of Lethbridge on this line, Raymond has been hard hit by our hit and miss mail service due to poor road conditions.

The roads are in such poor condition that the Greyhound bus has been unable to run and trucks were banned from the roads for a while.

Raymond businesses and citizens must better mail service than we are getting. Delay in mail can be costly to most any business in a lot of cases.

We should unite with Carleton and Macraath and other southern Alberta towns in attempting to get a daily train service here that would carry the mail.

At the same time we need an active civic organization to take up the matter, along with pushing a few of the other things we need so badly. Perhaps a new Board of Trade could be organized to work for the betterment of the community. The present Board of Trade has been, for the past two years, nearly inactive. Since the death of the President of the Board of Trade, John F. Salmon, no move has been made to reorganize or carry out an election.

We the people of Raymond have lost our sense of civic pride and community spirit. We stand out and criticize but balk when asked to serve in public office.

Let's get together and see if a little community spirit and cooperation and willingness to help each other to our objectives as a community would inject a bit of life and zest into our living. Would somebody start the ball rolling?

We could use the motto "Make Raymond A Better Place in Which to Live" and using that we could all work together through one organization to that end. We need better mail service. We need natural gas. We are getting a sewer and improved water works. We need a highway linking Coulters road with the Welling Road. We need a great many things which an active civic organization with all citizens working together could bring about.

Another organization that is badly needed in Raymond is a Parent Teacher organization or a Home & School association which will bring about better understanding of the problems of teachers and students, students and parents, and teachers and parents.

Recent developments in our High School shows a great need for such an organization in order that our schools might function properly and carry out their function to the proper end.

Did It Ever Happen To You

by R.J. Deachman

The big hotels lose every year tremendous quantities of house furnishings—there are many light fingered men and women in the world. Mr. Bannister from Detroit positively was not one—hence this little exchange between that gentleman and the assistant general manager of The Palmer House, Chicago Ill.

Mr. Harry Bannister.
Radio Station WWJ
Detroit, Mich.

Dear Mr. Bannister:

Upon making the customary room inspection immediately after a guest's departure, our housekeeper advises us that the two brown woolen blankets, replacement value $8.00 each, were missing from the room you occupied.

May we respectfully ask that when unpacking your luggage, should this article be noted, we will appreciate it if you will return same at once. Guests frequently, we find, in their haste, inadvertently place such items in their effects, and, of course return them when discovered.

Allow us to emphasize our appreciation of your patronage and we trust we may have the distinct pleasure of serving you often in the near future.

Yours very truly,
L. E. Kaffer

Asst. Gen. Mgr.

The Palmer House, Chicago.

MR BANNISTER REPLIES
Dear Mr. Kaffer

I am desolate to learn after reading your very tactful letter that you actually have guests at your hotel who are so absent minded as to check out and include such tokens of your esteem as wool blankets (replacement value $8.00 each) when replacing the other necktie and soiled shirt.

By the same token, I suppose that passengers on some of our leading railroads are apt to carry off a locomotive or a few hundred feet of rails when disembarking from the choo-choo on reaching their destination. Or a visitor to a big city zoo might conceivably take away an elephant or a rhinoceros, concealing same in a sack of peanuts—after removing the nuts. (replacement value $4.65)

In this particular case I might be of slight assistance to you in running down the recalcitrant blankets. As I had a lot of luggage with me, I needed all the drawer space you so thoughtfully provided in each room. The blankets in question occupied the bottom drawer of the dresser, and I wanted to place some white shirts (replacement value $3.50 each) in that drawer, so I lifted said blankets and placed them on a chair. Later the maid came in and I handed the blankets "same blankets and same replacement value to her—telling her in a nice gentlemanly way to get them to hell out of here.

If you'll count all the blankets in your esteemed establishment you will find that all are present and accounted for—unless other absent minded guests have been accommodated at your emporium meantime. That's the best I can do.

Yours very truly
Harry Bannister.

P.S. Have you counted the elevators lately?

THE SOFT ANSWER
Dear Mr. Bannister.

I wish to thank you for one of the most delightful letters it has been my pleasure to read in my entire business career. It would take a radio executive to compose a letter that would raise Damon Runyon, Mark Hellinger and lots of writers' radio might hire to blather with little envy.

Yes, Mr. Bannister, we do a lot of counting around here; I've counted the elevators, and they are right where they should be and operating every one of them. What I want to count now is more important to me—I want to continue counting you as a friend of the Palmer House.

You, in your executive capacity, must of necessity be supervising countless counts of so-called "listening audiences" and in "program pools" and all the bothersome promotions annoying countless people in the middle of their dinners, or getting them out of bed on cold nights to answer telephone queries. I shall assume therefore, that you have naturally realized that you were most unfortunately a victim of a machine-like routine that is made necessary by the very vastness of an organization as well operated as the Palmer House.

There are a lot of folk in this merry world that would, as you so naively put it, "carry off locomotives, hundreds of feet of rails, and pack away an elephant or a rhinoceros." Just put a few ash trays, towels, blankets, pillows, glassware and silverware in your public studios and reception rooms and see what happens.

Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of silverware, (actual auditors replacement value) is carried away annually by our "absent minded" guests. A similar total (in replacement value) is cherished annually by sentimental guests who like our luens as a memento of their visit to the Palmer House. They even go religious on us and take along the Gideon Bibles to the numbers of several thousands yearly. Nothing is sacred it would seem.

And so it goes. We are sorry Mr. Bannister that you were bothered as a result of a maid's mistake. Her lapse of memory started a giant wheel of routine in motion. I am in a way, happy the incident happened, because it gave me a chance to read your letter. It was a swell missive.

As the song goes, and WWJ has no doubt played it countless times, "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off". And there's another song you can also use, "Can't We Be Friends?"

Very sincerely yours,

L. E. Kaffer

While there is opposition among wheat growers and grain handling companies in Australia to the international wheat agreement, it is expected that it will be ratified by the Australian parliament.

United States department of agriculture officials have recommended an increase of 30 percent in country elevator charges for handling, conditioning and insuring grain; also an increase of 25 percent in all terminal elevator charges.

CANADA CALLS TO ACTION

In these days of devastating atom bombs, remarkable long-distance airplanes, astounding flying rockets and other untold factors, every man and woman across Canada should know at this critical time that current events in other countries of the world are of direct immediate interest to the masses in this country since citizens' observations as well as official information on Parliament Hill disclose definitely that the Canadian Government's attitude in the present world crisis is no mystery any longer.

Indeed it can be reported that hints have been given that, while the Government has already made some important statements lately on its likely policies in the present international crisis, especially its call to immediate action on collective security for the democracies against any totalitarian tyranny, yet it has also hinted that other bold decisions may be forthcoming in this general session to do its "full part" to preserve peace and security for the protection of the masses' life, liberty, and in plain everyday language even property, particularly in view of the interdependence of nations today when about one-third of the Canadian dollar can be traced to foreign trade earnings.

It may be emphasized that, for the record, these momentous decisions by the Government are not only to prevent war, if possible, which is important enough in itself, but it can be said these are aimed to back up the alliances of free peoples everywhere to keep peace on democratic conceptions by quick decisive actions in Ottawa as in other capitals during any emergency.

"For us there is no escape, even if we wish to seek one, in isolation or indifference," said an official spokesman to the Canadian Government's External Affairs Department, Mr. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, stressing current events have brought home to Canada the increasing threats of the rising tide of totalitarianism in the world to this country's prosperity and even very existence and at the same time that Canadians cannot live into themselves alone. He added, "A most cursory survey of international events during the recent months gives one cause for concern, perhaps apprehension."

It is significant that the Canadian Government has now gone on record among other things, as recognizing that the trend has been practically towards the division of one friendly world into two competing worlds, that even with close and friendly co-operation between the Great Powers the recovery of Western Europe from the war would have been difficult, that deeds, not merely words are now needed to save the democracies whose ranks must not be divided since communism wants domination, not co-operation; that "interdependence within the British Commonwealth" is a reality with principles of equality and complete autonomy for the members, that dangers and uncertainties of present world situation have forced Canada to assume greater responsibilities as a North American nation; that Canada-United States collaboration on joint defence does not mean any control whatsoever over Canadian affairs; that the primary objective of Canada's foreign policy was collective security by the operations of an effective international organization.

"Our foreign policy today must, therefore," External Affairs Minister St. Laurent has gone on record as saying here, "I suggest, be based on a recognition of the fact that totalitarian communist aggression endangers the freedom and peace of every democratic country, including Canada. On this basis and pending the strengthening of the United Nations, we should be willing to associate ourselves with other free states in any appropriate collective security arrangements which may be worked out under Articles 51 or 52 of the charter."

"In the circumstances of the present the organization of collective defence in this way is the most effective guarantee of peace," he stated with emphasis. "The pursuit of this course, steadfastly, unprovocatively, and constructively, is our best hope for disproving the gloomy predictions of inevitable war."

There is no doubt what the Canadian Government's policies are now or likely to be should any crisis arise suddenly in the world where precarious conditions for a peace-time period exist and it is most important that the masses should realize these conditions as seen along Parliament Hill at the present time.

WOMEN WORKING

More married women are now working in full or part-time jobs and seeking such work across Canada, especially in the larger population centres, than ever before in peacetime, it is learned here, with the explanation being that, perhaps, it is all due to the rising cost of living forcing such women to help their husbands in meeting household expenses because this trend appears to be mainly in the so-called low-income groups. Another explanation heard is that this may be attributed to the fact that many married women had become accustomed to working outside their homes during the war so that they are not hesitating now to seek such work when more money is needed to support the house.

"SOME CURRENCIES"

Considerable speculation is going on at present about the possibility of the Canadian dollar being devaluated since report of the International Monetary Fund has stated 'some currencies might have to be devaluated as they were too high for world trading. The report indicated that exchange rates in a number of countries will have to be changed in the near future because they are interfering with the flow of exports.

However, it must be emphasized that Canada has rejected any plan to devalue the dollar as Finance Minister has said, this country's economic program is not the kind for which that is an effective remedy. SAID IN THE CAPITAL.

"Our primary concern is to deal with immediate needs," said Trade Minister Howe in discussing a rental insurance bill to aid housing. "The long-term housing problem, including slum-clearance is one which will require working arrangements with the provinces and municipalities."

There seems to be an impression abroad that these social improvement measures are being put into effect by the Labor Government despite much opposition, was the comment of the famous British Social worker George Haynes on his arrival in this capital to study such problems, stressing that the broad principles of these social schemes in Britain are getting the support of all parties.

We must make the people realize that we are facing grave dangers commented J. M. Macdonald, M.P., noting that there were many empty seats on the floor of the House of Commons during an extremely important speech on foreign affairs.

And more than that, when we have found the cause and eliminated cancer we will know the real meaning of life, declared Dr. N.R. Jones, National Research Council, forecasting that a cancer cure may be found within the next ten years or so.

I feel Communism will force Christians back to the fundamental idea of Christianity, stated Gen. Albert Osborn, CBE, world leader of the Salvation Army in an interview here.

One can say too much about the importance of your work, said Defence Minister Brock Chastin at a meeting here of the newly organized Industrial Defence Board when it started its operations.

WEEKLY WIND-UP

The fact that three applications have been filed with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for licenses to operate television stations is causing much talk here about the likely effects of such expansions on the movies.

The proposal of a rental insurance plan to encourage housing units to be built is meeting with criticism because it is feared that the rental may be too high for the people who need such accommodation, especially when rentals of $80 per month are mentioned.

Lethbridge Experimental Station

WEEKLY LETTER
SPRAY YOUR SHEEP WITH DDT THIS YEAR

Spraying your sheep with a mixture of wettable DDT and water is an easy and efficient method of ked (sheep tick) control. During the past three years your Experimental Station Lethbridge has been investigating this method of ked control and now recommends it in preference to dipping. At least three range flocks of sheep were sprayed last year on summer range with complete satisfaction. Among the advantages of this method over dipping it has been found that (1) it requires less rough handling of the sheep, (2) it requires fewer men and less labor, (3) it is adaptable to any size of flock, (4) it utilizes equipment that can be used for several other types of work.

DDT, the new chemical developed during the war, in a 0.5 per cent solution is a spray that has given excellent results. This chemical maintains a residual killing power for several weeks after application and as a result it kills the live keds at spraying time and also the keds that hatch later from deposited eggs. Further study is being undertaken to determine the minimum effective strength of solution and the maximum length of time that the chemical will maintain its killing power. DDT preparations which contain oil are not suitable for treating live-stock, only preparations of DDT and water should be used.

Commercial preparations normally used as dips also can be used as sprays but they are a little more difficult to get into, and keep in solution. Although these preparations maintain a certain amount of residual killing power their effectiveness is limited to a relatively short period immediately after spraying.

Power sprayers of the type used in warble fly control are suitable for spraying sheep. To date these sprayers have been operated at 350 to 400 pounds pressure for this purpose but it is possible that lower pressures could be used. The single nozzle spray gun is satisfactory but a multiple nozzle spray boom speeds up the work considerably.

The procedure followed in spraying sheep is simple. The solution is mixed in the sprayer tank and kept agitated. The sheep are crowded into a long narrow pen and the spray is applied by holding the spray gun about one foot above the sheep and spraying the backs of the sheep until the fleeces are thoroughly saturated. Approximately 1/2 gallon of solution per mature animal and 1 gallon of solution per lamb is required if spraying is done within two weeks after shearing. It is recommended that spraying be done 10 to 14 days after shearing for the longer wool after that time prevents the penetration of the solution to the skin.

Further information will be supplied on request by the Experimental Station, Lethbridge.

My Week

by R. J. Deachman

Joseph E. Atkinson, Canada's most spectacular publisher, who exerted a wide influence in the city of Toronto and the province of Ontario, passed away few days ago. He was born poor, took to journalism at an early age and moved around among a number of different dailies. He was 34 when a group of liberals bought the Toronto Star. They paid $32,000 for it. It must have seemed like a useless sacrifice of cold cash of they thought of converting Toronto. Mr. Atkinson had already made a name for himself. He was asked to direct the paper. He made his own conditions, he was to be allowed to buy back the stock if he was ever able to do so. He did it, with the exception of a few scattered shares, he owned it all when the end came.

He took charge in 1899. It was a period of expansion and development but it took genius and hard work to build, in so brief a time, so great an institution. When he took over it had a circulation of 7,000. The average for the month of April 1948 was 369,352. The Weekly Star began publication in 1910, its present circulation exceeds 900,000. The Toronto Star has its own building on the continent. Now the genius who built it is no more but of all his great accomplishments, and there were many, the most extraordinary is the provision he has made for the continuation of the publications to which he gave the efforts of a life time.

It would have been the pride of most men to have kept the business in the family. In a sense Mr. Atkinson has done this for the family is still associated with it but he has established an organization known as the Atkinson Charitable Foundation. Now the earnings of the Toronto Daily Star, the Star Weekly and the Star Realty Company "will be used for the promotion and maintenance of social, scientific and economic reforms," which are charitable in nature, for the benefit of the people of the Province of Ontario. Its direction will be in the hands of those who helped Mr. Atkinson to make the Star.

When I entered the House of Commons in 1935, I lived in the summer months in the town of Wingham in Western Ontario. In previous years I had written odd articles for the Toronto Star mostly on economic topics. I started again. My stories now dealt with life in the country, the simple things: Robins in the garden on a wet day; children playing marbles on the sidewalk when the heat of the cement sidewalk could cook an egg. They were tales of life in a country town and its lovely life. Mr. Atkinson liked these stories. At times I dropped in to see him. He was genial, kindly, easy to meet. Whenever attempted to tell one what to write but he always mentioned the stories he liked best. They had to be readable and easy to understand. The ideal was always ahead of him, not always did he get what he wanted.

Once I interviewed a number of children, all under ten years of age rather they interviewed me. They were city children fresh from a holiday in the country. "Had I ever jumped on a load of hay?" I certainly had. "Did I ever hold a little pig in my arms?" Sure'y. I had also watched a new born-colt struggle to its feet and seek the milk bar where it breakfasted. I knew all about these things but they were new to the children and their eyes shone as they told me of the wonders they had seen. I asked one little girl if she knew who Hitler was. He was just climbing the ladder of ill-fate in those days and she gave me this astounding answer: "He's in the cost of everything". Good Lord! How true that was. We are still paying for him. I took the story of this little adventurer to Mr. Atkinson, he was intensely interested.

Cynics sometimes suggested that he raised money for the benefit of the children but it was also to advertise the Toronto Daily Star. I doubt, if that aspect carried much weight. He accepted these things as a duty and a pleasure. There was a tremendous driving force behind him. He could be as hard as nails at times but he was equally hard on himself and through it all there were deep touches of tenderness and sympathy.

Will the Foundation he established help humanity? There was a time when I would have given a negative answer to that question, I am not so sure now. The great reforms which promised much have changed as the same rations for 85 days with little. This institution will be the free use of salt and the other had no salt available. The lot which had the free choice of salt averaged 255 pounds in weight at the end of the feeding period, while those not getting salt averaged only 174 pounds. The salt is said to be vital to hogs rearing supplementary protein of weighing 90 pounds each were fed vegetable origin.

OPEN DRIVER TRAINING

SCHOOL IN ALBERTA

Driver training in Alberta schools is being urged and it appears that the movement has created a great deal of interest, according to officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

The matter has been discussed by a sub-committee of the provincial curriculum committee and has been recommended for consideration by the senior body at its May meeting.

It has been proposed that a start be made on an experimental basis in some city schools next term providing that trained teachers are available.

In this connection, the American Automobile Association has announced that it will establish a teacher training school in Vancouver during August, if there are sufficient applicants to justify a class being organized.

Driver training schools under private auspices already have been opened in some parts of Alberta. Officials of the A.M.A. have stated that any endorsement of such schools would have to depend on the production of satisfactory information that the instructors were qualified.

In the U.S. it has been found that where driver training has been developed in the schools, there has been a noticeable reduction in motor vehicle accidents.

Brucellosis

Bang's disease of cattle, also called Brucellosis, is an infectious disease caused by a bacteria known as Brucella abortus. This bacteria was first discovered by Dr. Olf Bang, a Danish Veterinarian, about the year 1895. Brucellosis is widely prevalent in practically all dairy countries of the world. It is one of the most important diseases of live stock, striking at the very source of the cattle industry in causing abortion. Brucellosis is important, too, because the infection is transmissible from animals to humans, in whom it causes Undulant Fever.

DISEASED ANIMALS INFECT HERDS

The most common manner in which Bang's disease is transmitted to a clean herd is through the introduction of infected animals. The disease may also be contracted by placing healthy cattle on a common pasture with infected cattle.

Infection is believed to take place mainly by the disease producing bacteria gaining entrance to the digestive tract through cattle eating, drinking or licking contaminated material. The infection then localizes in the uterus and udder. At the time of abortion the afterbirth, the fluid in the membranes, the foetus and the discharges which may persist for several weeks after the animal has aborted are teeming with Brucella bacteria. The infected material may be spread about the pasture, yards or stables. Usually a cow will only abort once, but occasionally twice. She usually remains infected for life. This is a costly disease, the calf is lost, and there is a decrease in milk flow for that lactation period. Although the act of abortion is the principle manifestation of Bang's disease it does not in itself constitute a positive diagnosis, as abortions may result from many other sources. Have your local veterinarian take a blood sample to be tested to prove whether the cow is infected or not.

CONTROL

To prevent introducing the disease buy replacements only from clean herds. All additions should be negative to the blood test. They should be isolated for 60 days and, if possible, another blood test taken before being allowed to mix with the new herd.

To control and eradicate the disease in a herd containing only a few reactors, all cattle may be blood tested and the reactors sold for slaughter. This would have to be followed by a blood test every three months until all reactors are eliminated from the herd. Infected cattle should be sold for slaughter and not to the neighbors.

Many livestock men prefer to follow a yearly program of calfhood vaccination. This policy is favored as they consider it less expensive than slaughtering a high percentage of the herd. Calves are vaccinated between the ages of four and eight months to develop resistance against Brucellosis. If this is done for five or six years a herd can be built up in which the vaccinated heifers on maturity replace the reactors. A large number of Alberta ranchers have followed this program for several years. As a result in some cases where they had thirty to forty abortions in the herd yearly, this has been cut down to one or two. The aim in the use of the vaccine in a Brucellosis infected herd should be directed toward eradication of the disease, as well as the assurance of a calf crop.

Calfhood vaccination program: For the purpose of assisting in the reduction of cattle losses from Brucellosis (Bang's disease) the Alberta Department of Agriculture is prepared to assist owners who make application for calfhood vaccination, in the following manner:

By providing Brucella Abortus

in marriage Vonda Lee, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence of immediate relatives.

A wedding dinner was served at
